Judge T. C. Everett handles the criminal docket with dispatch and with the ease of an old-timer. He is demonstrating that a layman can do the job in a fine, dignified way and determined that the law shall be respected. He made an announcement in his court on Tuesday of this week which violators of the prohibition law might well take notice of and be profited thereby.
After convicting Jim Russell and Henry Medlin for manufacturing and keeping whiskey for sale, he was much besought by counsel for leniency for the two offenders and for a bond for good behavior. The court announced that in assuming the duties of his office he made up his mind that in all cases of manufacturing and selling whiskey in which there was a conviction it will be his policy to pronounce jail sentences, except in the most extreme cases of mitigating circumstances.
Those who heard the remarks of the court got the impression that the court has some strong convictions about the willful deliberateness which must precede the violation of the prohibition laws. Jim and Henry did not have those mitigating circumstances in their favor.

Not From Lips Alone

There are times in the lives of men when the lips speak and the heart is silent.

At other times the heart would speak but the lips remain closed.

But in grateful remembrance of their bounteous favors to us during the year that is drawing to a close, both our hearts and our lips unite with the pen in offering to our many friends and patrons our sincere appreciation of all they have done for us.

Greater thanks no man may truly give.
